

7.1.1

Shri Guru Gobind Singhji Institute of Engineering & Technology, Vishnupuri, Nanded.

The ultimate aim of gender equity programmes is to achieve equality. We have achieved gender equality to major extent in terms of strength of girl students in institute, placement of girls in campus interviews, participations of girls in various activities such as Pragya (Annual national level technical event), Utsav (Annual cultural activities) and Zenith (Annual sports activities) and all other regular and routine activities. If the end result obtained is equality, it is not justified to level/brand the activities not to be in the category of gender equity. On the contrary, we feel through this type of activities girls are put into a more realistic situation (along with boys) to face the challenges. This makes them more confident and competent. Similarly, the internship and project works are real interaction with man, machine and materials. They collectively learn and do all those things for a longer duration with supervision of experts. We feel this is more effective in real-life and we will remain firm on our original claim.

In view of this, it is our earnest request to consider the original DVV data for verification.

Moslu
DIRECTOR
S.G.G.S. Institute of Engg. & Tech
Vishnupuri, Nanded